

Work-In-Progress

Our web app's goal is to connect creators of one area with creators of another. For this course, we're going to be solely focusing on getting the app working with game developers in mind. So the focus will be on three different areas, game developers, artists, and audio engineers. A user can sign up and will choose one of these three roles to specialize in. They can then, along with our other users, post projects to our website that other users can potentially sign up to work on.
